GRIFFITH LIKELY TO BE ON STAND FOR TWO MORE DAYS

Sixth Day of David L. Lawrence Trial Gets Under Way

GRUELLING CROSS-QUIZ

Witness States That He Did Not Conspire With Anyone

By Raymond Wilcoxe
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, Nov. 18—(INS)—A dismissed Earle administration highway official, one of the Commonwealth's key witnesses in the black-mail trial of Democratic state chairman David L. Lawrence, today bore the full brunt of a grueling cross-examination which was expected to last another two days.

As the sixth day of the trial opened in Dauphin County Court Edward A. Griffith, regional engineer of the Erie Highway District from 1935 until his dismissal in 1937 by then Gov. George H. Earle following the Erie gravel scandal, was on the witness stand for the third successive day.

Following several hours of cross-examination yesterday, chief defense counsel Oliver K. Eaton said he would question him during today's morning session and continue his cross-examination Monday when Court reconvened after a week-end recess.

Griffith appeared to be in for an uncomfortable period as the veteran Pittsburgh criminal attorney hammered away at him in an effort to prove that Lawrence had nothing to do with the Erie gravel scandal.

Griffith had no sooner completed his second day of direct testimony in which he pictured Lawrence as having been friendly with the late John Verona, Pittsburgh politician, and interested in gravel matters, than Eaton tore into him.

"In the bill of particulars you are charged with an offense—" he began, only to be peremptorily halted by Prosecutor Earl V. Compton, who protested that the contents of the bill of particulars could not be brought into the Lawrence trial proceedings.

"All I wanted to do," shouted Eaton to Judge Howard W. Hughes above the bedlam which ensued, "was to ask this man if he was guilty of the offense charged against him."

Nevertheless Eaton brought out to the jury that Griffith had been charged by the District Attorney's office with being a party to the conspiracy for which Lawrence was being tried.

Griffith vehemently denied that he knew he had been named with Lawrence, Verona, and others as a co-conspirator. Neither Compton nor District Attorney Carl B. Shelley told him, he said.

"I didn't conspire with anyone," he exclaimed.

"You have not been a conspirator with David L. Lawrence, have you?" Eaton asked.

"No sir, I have not," Griffith replied. Eaton drew further from the witness the statement that to the best of his knowledge the pioneer materials company had never engaged in any wrong-doing. Lawrence, he added, had never asked him to do anything wrong.

The prosecution charges that after the Pioneer company "fraudulently" obtained a gravel contract from the State it supplied "inferior material" at an "exorbitant" price. When the Erie gravel scandal broke and the Pioneer company had trouble collecting its money from the State, the prosecution charges that Lawrence used this to extort $5,000 from Spurgeon Bowser, president of the company.

Edgely Man Held in Bail For Part in Auto Theft

Jacob Moyer, Edgely, was held in $1500 bail for a further hearing November 22nd, following a preliminary trial held in Philadelphia yesterday. Moyer is charged with being implicated in the theft of an automobile in Philadelphia on February 27th.

Moyer was taken into custody at his Edgely gas station on Thursday when he was arrested by Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo. Moyer along with Eric Hanf, 38, Haycock Mountain and Warren Phoenix, Philadelphia, are the three involved.

The police allege that the three stole the automobile of Thomas Bleezer, 1974 Revora Road, Oak Lane, from in front of 5002 Wakefield street, Philadelphia.

The car evidently was taken up into the Haycock Mountain section, dismantled and some of the parts sold.

Supper Served To Ten At The Deiterick Home

Mrs. Ruth Deiterick, Spruce street, entertained friends at her home on Thursday evening, a social time being followed by a spaghetti supper.

Those served: Mrs. Robert Sutton, Mrs. Moss Shatzer, Mrs. Harry Sutton, Mrs. Walter Garretton, Mrs. David Hutchinson, Mrs. Lester James Brady, Mrs. Charles Ludwig, Mrs. Grimes Brady, Mrs. Florence Ludwig.

Federal Authorities Hold Bristol Man, Serious Charge

A Bristol man, Nicholas Stallone, was held under $2500 bail yesterday by a United States Commissioner, following his appearance before the Commissioner in Federal Court in Philadelphia. Stallone, Jefferson avenue, Bristol, is charged with violation of the Mann Act.

Stallone waived a hearing and it was then that the bail was fixed. Along with Stallone, two women, one a resident of Bristol and the other of Ambler, were released in their own recognizance. The women are Mrs. Rose Paone, 19, Ambler, and Mrs. Catherine Fuss, 28, Washington St., Bristol.

Stallone was arrested here during the early part of the week when the Paone woman informed police that the Bristol man had brought her here for immoral purposes and that he had also taken her into Trenton for the same purpose. It was later that the Fuss woman became involved. The case was turned over to the Federal authorities and "G" men came here. Statements were taken from all three by the "G" men and then later warrants were issued in Philadelphia.

STATE OFFICER VISITS NEWTOWN WOMEN'S CLUB

Mrs. William Otter Tells How Club Women Are Working For Better Democracy

MRS. BOYER SPEAKS

NEWTOWN, Nov. 18—Mrs. William Otter, Germantown, second vice-president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, attended the meeting of Newtown New Century Club, Wednesday, and was the guest speaker of the day. "Club women are working for a better Democracy, and for a better living," said Mrs. Otter.

Woman's part in the future of America said Mrs. Otter, lies around her straight thinking, and in this connection made the statement that quiet peaceful America is the best answer to the warring nations. She said if the people in this country care for their nation, they will work for peace. She also urged the women never to miss an opportunity for speaking a kind word.

Mention was made by Mrs. Otter of the golden jubilee which will be held by the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Atlantic City in 1941.

Speaking briefly of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Otter said this year it is working for the regulation of bill boards and is making a close study of the current marriage laws in the State. The strength of the women's clubs, she said in closing, lies in the fact that they are all working along the same lines.

Fifty persons were present at this session, over which Miss M. Elizabeth Palmer presided. Mrs. Reuben P. Kester read extracts from Poor Richard's Almanac.

Prior to introduction of the second guest, Mrs. Calvin S. Boyer, Doylestown, president of Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs, two violin solos were rendered by Mrs. Marvin Baransky, who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. William Kenderdine.

After extending greetings from the county federation Mrs. Boyer said she considers it a great privilege to be a club woman. The Newtown New Century Club, she said, was the first in the county to join the State Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Boyer was much impressed with the slogan, "If you can't pull, push; and if you can't push, get out of the way."

Miss Mildred Pearson played two piano solos. Tea was served with Mrs. Lucy Porter, Mrs. Cecily Ryan, Mrs. John C. Goodnoe, Mrs. Arthur Yunkers and Mrs. Watson Hillborn in charge. Hostesses were Mrs. J. C. Usilton and Mrs. Alfred A. Burns.

The next meeting, on December 6th, will feature a musicale in charge of Mrs. J. W. Woll. This will be guest day and the hostesses will be Mrs. A. Kurtz King and Miss Laura B. Horton.

(By "The Stroller")
"Who is the Stroller?"
This is a question we are frequently asked.

Not to give you a short answer—but I just won't tell you my other name.

But, to be game, I think it only fair to give you a description of myself. So here goes:

I am between four feet, six inches, and six feet four inches tall. I have two eyes, one on either side of my nose. My hair stands on end when I'm scared. Each of my fingers has a nail on the end (so don't arouse my ire). I tip the scales at—(no, I won't tell you that, for I'm sensitive about my weight).

I am fond of sweet soups, but don't care much for sour sweets. My favorite pastime is watching your misdeeds and noting them publicly for the rest of my friends.

Resistance Smashed

Berlin, Nov. 18—German authorities today asserted that all anti-German ring-leaders in Prague are among the nine executed or 1200 arrested during the last few days.

Therefore, it was declared, resistance to German rule has been smashed "once and for all."

Sources of the anti-German agitation in the former Czech Republic, authorities in Berlin said, reflect foreign instigation.

Communications with Prague remained difficult, and German quarters there were silent, except to assert that all is quiet and there has been no new developments.

Girl Witness

Harrisburg, Nov. 18—A dismissed girl administration high official, one of the Commonwealth's key witnesses in the blackmail trial of Democratic state chairman David L. Lawrence, denied today that road improvements to the Erie district were planned to favor the Pioneer Material Company.

Edward E. Griffith, regional director of the Erie highway department from 1935 to his dismissal in 1937, for the second consecutive day was subjected to a grueling cross-examination by chief defense attorney Oliver K. Eaton. "That was farthest from my thoughts," answered Griffith when asked if he planned roadwork in the six county Erie district to favor the Kittanning firm.

Killed in Auto Crash

Philadelphia, Nov. 18—Granville B. Jackson, 43, of Byberry, was killed today when his automobile crashed head on with a trolley car in the northern section of the city. A half-dozen passengers in the trolley were shaken. Jackson died an hour after the accident of a fractured skull.

TELL OF EXPERIENCES WITH HYBRID CORN

Farmers of Northampton Twp. Speak After Bountiful Supper

ENJOY MUSIC AND PLAY

IVYLAND, Nov. 18—Experiences of their own with hybrid field corn were recounted at a meeting of members of Northampton Township Farmers' Club, Wednesday evening, the session being held in Ivyland fire station.

Seventy-five attended the supper session, at which Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sobelman and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Phillips were hosts.

Joseph W. Hollowell said he had planted the Iowan No. 52 variety. When the seed arrived, he found the grains very small and made the mistake of planting it too thick. As a result, he said, the ears did not develop as well as the common variety. Every stalk of the hybrid corn had one ear and some had two. When the corn was harvested the yield was found to have been better than the common variety. Mr. Hollowell added that the fodder was found to be very good for silage.

Russell Edwards said he planted the New Jersey No. 44 variety, and announced a much better yield.

George Hobensack, Jr., told of his experiences. He and his father planted three varieties of hybrid field corn and found the yield to be superior to that of the common field corn.

Reuben A. Martin, a visitor from Doylestown township, said he had planted the New Jersey No. 2 variety. This yielded an average of 90 bushels to the acre, but the common variety yielded an average of 80 bushels to the acre. He displayed six fine ears and offered to have an exhibit at the community fair at the Richboro High School next week.

The business session was in charge of the president, Harvey Stackhouse. Reporting for the crop committee, Joseph W. Hollowell commented on the corn yield and said the winter grain seems to be progressing nicely.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE

At fourth quarterly conference of Tullytown-Emilie-Fallsington Methodist Churches last evening, held in Emilie Church, Dr. Howard E. Hand, superintendent of the North District, Philadelphia Conference, presided. Reports were heard from various organizations, and the return of the pastor, the Rev. Samuel Gaskell, was unanimously requested.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

In response to an appeal which was broadcast over the radio a few nights ago in behalf of eight-year-old Catherine Felt, Philadelphia, who is suffering from what physicians declared to be an incurable disease, lymphatic leukemia, Joseph Churchill McEwan, 209 North Main street, Doylestown, on Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock supplied 500 cubic centimeters or the equivalent of about a pint and a quarter of blood.

The transfusion was performed at the Northern Liberties Hospital, 808 North 7th street, Philadelphia, with Dr. Handel and Dr. Ginsberg in charge.

Mr. McEwan, who is 47 years of age, was able to supply Type Two blood, but he had never suffered from an attack of lymphatic leukemia. He however, suffered a streptococcal blood stream infection in 1932. Supplying blood in times of emergency is nothing unusual for Mr. McEwan. During the past three years he has supplied blood for at least nine persons who were in need of it.

At a sale this week, the Henry A. James property on North Main street, Doylestown, was sold to Dr. I. Harry Ritter, dentist, who has been maintaining offices at 50 S. Main street, that borough.

A play in the Pennsylvania German brogue which have become quite popular will be staged at the Silverdale Fire House this evening. The presentation will mark the eighth appearance at Silverdale of Robert L. Reinhardt and his well-known Milford Square Players and the three-act comedy-drama, "Sie Mocha der Jake Hiera."

The cast is comprised of ten characters who with years of experience in Pennsylvania German productions have attained marked efficiency and always play their respective roles in a most commendable and entertaining manner. The play has recently been staged twice at Spinnerstown and was also presented at Harleysville.

MORRISVILLE ATHLETIC FIELD TO BE DEDICATED

Acquisition and Shaping of Field Culminates Several Years' Effort

PARADE TO BE TODAY

MORRISVILLE, Nov. 18—The new Robert Morris athletic field will be dedicated this afternoon. On the schedule for the much heralded event are a parade, speaking, and athletic contests.

The acquisition of an athletic field culminated several years of effort, the site being nothing but a swamp several years ago.

With WPA and school assistance, Morrisville now has one of the most beautiful athletic plants in the section. The dedication exercises will be open to the public.

Alvin R. Pratt, general chairman, and his committee, have been working hard to make the event an eventual one. At one p. m., at the high school, a parade will get under way, marching down Hillcrest avenue to Pennsylvania avenue, up Pennsylvania to West Hendrickson and then to the field. Among the marchers will be William C. Sanford Post, No. 433, Drum and Bugle Corps, the Morrisville and Falls Township high school bands, police, cheerleaders, school board members, Capitol View and Union Fire Companies and their auxiliaries, teachers and school children. Richard L. Allen is active parade marshal, assisted by E. Leonard Cunn and E. Raymond Schwinger. Honorary marshals will be Joseph Heenan, vice-president of the school board, and Mayor, William Burgess, Jr.

The parade will reach the field at 1:20. The speaking begins at 1:30. Speakers are: Paul Taylor, school board member, who will give the address of welcome; Mayor Burgess, Coleman C. Morgan, Rotary Club president; Harry Lair, past commander of the Legion; Mrs. Frank Braker, past president of the Legion Auxiliary; Joseph Gorman, president of the class of 1937; William H. Howell, fence committee member; Dorothy Gish and John Hoffman, athletic directors; Manohar R. Reiter, supervising principal; J. H. Hoffman, Bucks County supervisor of schools, and William Anderson, president of the school board. Others to be introduced include Carver Tettener, president of the Alumni Association; William O'Neill, chairman of the building and grounds committee; John Gontar, engineer of the field layout; Isaac Scott, faculty manager of athletics, and Gordon Cox, president of Student Council.

Following Anderson's address accepting the field, flag raising ceremonies will be held. The flag pole is being presented by the Legion; the flag by their auxiliary; the entrance gate by the class of 1937, and the plot in the northeast sector by the Rotary Club. The fence project will also be accepted.

Following the addresses at 2:30, the Morrisville and Falls Township girls' field hockey teams will play. At 3:30 p. m., the Morrisville 130-pound football team meets the Bensalem High Junior varsity gridgers.

A loudspeaker system will be used for the addresses and ceremonies, and for the two athletic contests.

John Smith, Market Street, Dies at the Age of 71 Years

Appendicitis caused the death of John Smith, 71, of Market street, early this morning in Abington Hospital. Mr. Smith, who was born in Chester county, had been ill for three days.

Two sisters survive him, Mrs. Philip Winter and Mrs. Anna Funk, Maple Beach.

The Rev. Paul R. Ronge, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, will conduct the private funeral service on Tuesday at two p. m., at the Ruel funeral home, 314 Cedar street. Burial is to be in Bristol Cemetery.

Poor Boxes Robbed At Church Shrines in Croydon

The two poor boxes in the shrines in front of St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Croydon, were broken open and robbed last evening. It is believed that about $15 was taken.

A large stone was used to crack the iron casting and in this manner the boxes were opened and the contents taken.

It is believed that the robbery was committed sometime between eight and 10 o'clock last evening as the robbery was discovered when the shrine buildings were closed for the night.

Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo requests that if anyone saw any individuals acting suspiciously in the vicinity of the shrines that they advise him.

Apprehend Man Who Left Accident Scene; Was Dazed

A passenger who left the scene of an accident near Tullytown yesterday morning, was found wandering in a dazed condition on the King Farm property a few hours later by Corporal Evans and some of his men of Oxford Valley barracks who were gunning in that area.

The man, Joseph Geisner, 919 Revere avenue, Trenton, N. J., was taken to Harriman Hospital, where X-rays were taken to determine extent of chest injuries. The officers had seen Geisner during their hunt for game, and soon after met one of the searchers for the man who had escaped the scene of the accident. The officers returned with the searchers and soon found Geisner, with clothing torn and wet.

The driver of the car, a large coupe which skidded on a curve and went into a field, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. He is, Willis E. Bradford, Hotel Penn, Trenton, N. J. The third man is Rolf Christenson, 68 Carroll street, Trenton, he being taken to the hospital also. Officer Harris investigated.

Dr. H. E. Hand Dwells On "Keeping Faith With Big American Ideals"

AT EMILIE CHURCH

EMILIE, Nov. 18—"Keeping Faith with Big American Ideals" was the subject upon which Dr. Howard E. Hand, superintendent of the North District, Philadelphia Methodist Conference, dwelt when he addressed the Bristol Group of Epworth Leagues in Emilie Methodist Church last evening. The subject was based upon a passage of Scripture from the 16th Psalm: "The lines are fallen to me in pleasant places. Yea I have a goodly heritage."

Impressed upon the young people was the need of youth conserving American life and greatness, the theme being prompted by close proximity of Armistice and Thanksgiving seasons, and centering about the various institutions of American life.

Considering first the little red school-house, and American faith in education, Dr. Hand said that "Although civilization could be built on ignorance, there must be intelligent minds. . . . The leader who said 'We must educate' is on an equal plane with Patrick Henry who said 'Give me liberty or give me death.' The rote must be preserved if we wish to conserve the heritage." The speaker mentioned that he envied the teacher in

George Yerkes Re-Named Master of The Grange

LANGHORNE, Nov. 18—Renamed as Master of Middletown Grange, this week, George Yerkes, Siles, is starting his second year of activity in that capacity. Mr. Yerkes was re-elected at the meeting held in Friends School house, here, Wednesday.

The president and Mrs. Yerkes were named as delegates to the state Grange sessions in Chambersburg next month.

Other officers elected at the meeting last evening were as follows: Overseer, Blaine Patterson; lecturer, Mrs. Mabel Bjarnason; steward, Harry Keston; assistant steward, Howard Yerkes; chaplain, Edwin Ridge; treasurer, Frank Thompson; secretary, Bertha Stradling; gatekeeper, Charles Otis; Ceres, Lillian Row; Pomona, Miss Hannah Hibbs; Flora, Mrs. Hugh B. Webster; lady assistant steward, Marie Weston; member of executive committee for three years, Dr. H. C. Terry, and member of finance committee, Edwin Ridge.

Members were informed that the fifth or Pomona degree will be conferred at a special meeting which will be held at the headquarters of Tyro Hall Grange, Buckingham, Monday evening, November 27th.

Quarterly meeting of Lower Bucks and Philadelphia Pomona Grange, No. 22, will be held in the memorial house, here, Wednesday, December 6, with the local grange as host.

DOLLS FROM AFAR GREET BRISTOL CLUB MEMBERS

Presented by Mrs. J. Horace Balm, Frankford; Seniors Entertain Juniors

GUESTS PRESENT GIFT

Bristol was treated to a visit of 100 little people hailing from practically every county on the earth's surface last evening, when Mrs. J. Horace Balm, Frankford, brought her dolls to visit the Travel Club for the entertainment of the Travel Club Juniors, on the occasion of a reception tendered the latter last evening.

Gregor MacGregor, of Scotland, in very nonchalant manner for him, waved aside the costs of a journey; Sister Agnes obtained special permission to leave her Canadian convent for a brief time; a gay Caballero from Mexico decided to permit the beautiful Senoritas to pine for him; and each in his or her individual manner won a spot in the hearts of Bristol club women.

"Around the World in a Doll House" was the manner in which Mrs. Balm announces her presentation, and her large collection of little folks from all points of the compass delighted with the stories they told through their owner. Having travelled back and forth across this continent countless times, and journeyed to many far-away points, Mrs. Balm has had excellent opportunity to secure such an enviable collection. It has been added to, likewise, by friends who know of her hobby and are anxious to make the family circle larger.

George Washington was pleased that a colored mammy was present, reminding him of his Virginia home. His Majesty, Edward VI, from England, graced the occasion; and the "Quints" came from Canada.

Unusual in this collection was Billy, the bottle baby from New Jersey, whose body was a glass bottle; Henry, the cartoon kid; Cornelia, a cornhusk doll from Berea, Ky.; Sweetie, the sugar-cane doll from Brazil; a seal-skin doll from Labrador; a member of the Bantu tribe in Africa; and a Storm Trooper from Germany.

The dolls were most properly introduced to the audience, their sponsor having been presented to Bristolians by Mrs. Franklin Wallin, advisor of the Juniors, after a welcome by both Mrs. Wallin, and Mrs. Linton Martin who was in charge of the evening meeting.

That "the dolls help us to understand the rest of the world" was one point brought out by the Frankford resident. The first doll introduced was Aunt Minnie, a wax doll, and the oldest of the family; next was Betty May, a modern doll; two members of the Monnonite sect; Snowy Hickory, "A bit of a nut"; Mammy White, the gift of a group of poor children from the foreign quarter of Philadelphia, who had so enjoyed Mrs. Balm's display. Mr. Harry came from Bar Harbor, Me.; John Alden and Priscilla from New England; Aunt Jimima with her gift of cotton from Alabama; several Indians left their lake region home in New Hampshire, and were joined by Minne-ha-ha, the original member of the doll family. Laughing Water and her baby Rain-in-the-Face came from Utah to join them; as did also Snow Cloud from the Yosemite Valley of California.

The three "Little Women" arrived from Concord; there were Mexicans from the country to the South; a Guatemalan peddler; a doll made by primitive Bolivian Indians; Madeline from Brazil with her basket of vegetables; a family of three from the Argentine; an Omaha and her charge from China, the one hat covering the two, and thus protecting the baby's cap which was embroidered with kittens' ears to ward off the evil spirits.

MAKES 3 RELIGIOUS BEQUESTS AND ONE FOR KINDNESS SHOWN

Frank A. Wagner, Warrington Township, Wills An Estate of $4100

OTHER WILLS ARE FILED

Doylestown Woman Will Inherit $10,000 Estate from Her Husband

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 18—Three bequests of a religious nature and one made for kindness shown before his death featured the will of Frank A. Wagner, Warrington Township. Wagner left a personal estate of $1100 and real estate valued at $3,000.

The testator directed that the pastor of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church at Hallowell should receive $100 in memory of his wife, Annie, and himself. He also directed that Emil C. Oestreich should inherit his watch, chain, cross and wedding ring and have it melted and used for the making of a pyx, chalice or other sacred vessel.

The residue of the estate will be divided into three equal parts; one-third to a brother, Peter V. Wagner, Mount Carmel; one-third to the pastor of St. Joseph's Church for the saying of masses for the repose of the souls of the testator and his wife, and one-third to the person who cared for him during his last illness.

Real estate holdings consisted of a 37 acre farm.

A widow, Alice, will inherit the $100 personal and $2,000 real estate holdings of John S. Schroy, of West Rockhill township, who left a will in which he directed that his three sons, Charles, of Richlandtown; Fred and Clarence, both of Sellersville, R. D., who were also named the executors, should inherit the estate following the death of their mother. Real estate consisted of a house and lot in West Rockhill township.

Five children, Sallie M. Baum, Walter E. Baum, Mrs. Florence Mitchell, Mrs. Dora Hart and C. Edward Baum, will share equally the $375 personal and $400 real estate holdings left by their father, Harvey W. Baum, of Sellersville.

Walter E. Baum, C. Edward and Sallie M. Baum were named the

OFFSETTING DEFENSE COSTS

The information comes from Washington that while the Administration proposes to authorize the expenditure of a staggering amount of money for national defense in the next few years, there is some realization that expenditures for other purposes must be cut down in proportion.

Defense appropriations for this year totalled more than $1,700,000,000 and a deficiency appropriation will probably be required because of increases in the Army and Navy authorized by President Roosevelt under his declaration of a limited national emergency.

In well-informed quarters in Congress it is believed that $2,000,000,000 will be needed for defense in the next fiscal year.

Chairman Vinson, of the House Naval Committee, has disclosed that Congress would be asked in January to authorize a further $1,300,000,000 expansion of the Navy.

We are reminded, however, that if this program were approved, the cost would be spread out over the three or four years that Mr. Vinson estimated would be necessary to complete the program.

More than $3,500,000,000 of the total Government appropriations for this year represents so-called permanent appropriations, such as interest on the national debt and other items which Congress cannot cut.

Many Congressional leaders believe that any major cuts in spending would have to be made on such items as relief, which represented $1,700,000,000 for this year, and on farm subsidies, which totalled $938,000,000 for the same period.

Senator Byrnes, who is chairman of the Senate Unemployment and Relief Committee, says he is hopeful that increased employment will permit a cut in WPA appropriations for next year.

The American people are as strong for preparedness as they are for keeping out of war, but the fact must be faced that if these billions for defense are added to the billions that have been spent for the sake of spending, the nation must inevitably go on the rocks.

WE TAX OURSELVES

It has been said several times lately, but it needs to be said often, that the public and the politicians are both responsible for high taxes. A. H. Stone, president of the National Tax Association, said it again to a conference in San Francisco, "Under our system," he said, "the government costs what the people, who constitute the government, are willing for it to cost."

This would be plain enough to everybody if it were not for the great American illusion that taxes are paid by a couple of other fellows. The voters demand and approve vast expenditures on the comfortable assumption that it is not their own money which will be spent. The bill comes in later as high taxes and then the taxpayers howl.

Obviously we have nobody but ourselves to blame for the high cost of government. No foreign power imposes it on us. We are mainly to blame for what happens when we hand the politicians a blank check.

It is partly our fault, too, when public improvements and public services kate the costs of government too high.

"LOVE'S INTERLUDE" by -MAY- CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XXI

"Won't you smoke? Something tells me you'd enjoy a pipe," Moira told Rodney.

"Omniscient girl! Dare I? Most women object to a pipe, I find."

"Not I. Father long ago broke me in to that. Often I worked nights in his study—he liked to have me there—we were both studying—and often the room was blue with the smoke of his pipe."

"Your virtues grow on me every minute," grinned Rodney. "Do you know you're rather an exceptional girl? Take my sister Amanda, for example. She raises a holy row if even the door of my den is open while I'm enjoying a pipe."

Moira thought: "She would! She's just that kind."

She smiled at her visitor. "You and she are two quite different people, aren't you, Dr. Stone?"

"That's a fact. She loves Society shindigs, while I hate them, though I do have to put in an appearance now and again. I wish Amanda would go in for something—anything—to take her mind off Society and contract and the eternal cocktail-parties. I tell her she's naturally bright, but her talents turned in the wrong direction."

"She does work for charity and the hospital," Moira defended her, rather to her own surprise.

"Oh, the time and effort in raising money the way Amanda and her cronies raise it—I mean balls and bridge-drives and that kind of shindig—could be, where charity and themselves are concerned, more profitably employed. They're really only pretexts for continuing the frivolities. You'd be surprised how little money actually goes to charity from the card-parties, for example, even when they seem to be howling successes."

"Mismanagement. Ignorance of the rudiments of finance. Spending too much money on refreshments, especially of the more potent kind! Expensive orchestras engaged for the balls, too. Expensive halls. Graft. Too many free tickets wangled."

Moira said, shyly: "I enjoy the little bit of work I do at the hospital."

His face lit up at once. "Ah, that's different. That's going to the source. That's direct charity of a real kind. I'm not much hand at quoting the scriptures, but charity does and should mean love coming from the heart and translated into practical labor, however unspectacular and humdrum it may seem."

She glowed. His words fired her. She would renew those labors.

She said: "I think people are so much happier when they are working for others. You yourself must have a soul-satisfying feeling at the end of your day—or does the day never end? Are you always on call?"

"Practically that. But sometimes it has an unexpected ending—a delightful ending that a hard-worked, humdrum medic never imagined—or daren't let himself imagine—you understand me?" and he looked at her directly with a warm appreciation in his eyes.

"I'm so glad you're enjoying yourself." The glow mounted. She was on the point of saying that her flat must seem ridiculously small and shabby after his own beautiful apartment—but thought better of it.

For true hospitality needed no apology. And he mustn't ever know that it was for Tarry she had so extended herself primarily! She was glad she'd cooked such a lovely dinner. That her little domain was as clean and shiny as soap and polish and elbow-grease could make it. That the log-fire crackled a cheery welcome. That she'd bought cream for the coffee instead of milk. That flowers were everywhere. That she had her new dress on for the occasion, and that apparently he noticed every detail, and was appreciative.

She drew him on to talk about himself. Not so much his present work, but things he had enjoyed in the past. His travels. Hobbies.

Soon she discovered he was interested in archaeology. Her association with her father had given her a smattering of knowledge about that. When Rodney Stone described his first impression of the Parthenon, she could listen intelligently, put in the right questions and comments.

He had toured Greece in its remotest parts. Dreamed in that perfect specimen of a bygone art, the great amphitheatre at Catania. Luxor he had visited too. He had a fund of stories and anecdotes.

"You carry me off on a magic carpet into another world," she sighed.

"I couldn't have a nicer companion, could I?"—as he smiled at the intent young figure curled on the divan beside him. He put out his hand and touched hers, but only for a second.

"You have plenty of friends, naturally. Or do you? But of course you must!" he said.

"Acquaintances? Yes. Real friends? Very few. Often I wonder what is real friendship?"

That led to a discussion of the term. She showed him she had a keen, fresh mind. Ideals, also. The talk drifted to philosophy. When the bells of the church nearby rang out the hour, he stopped to count those chimes, jumped up, exclaiming: "Why, I thought it was no more than nine. It's eleven o'clock!"

She got up too. "I'd no notion of the time either. Didn't it go fast?"

"On wings! Thank you a thousand times for the evening, Miss Moira!"

"And thank you for the partridge!"

"They were my excuse. I wanted to see you. It couldn't," he added enthusiastically, "have turned out nicer!"

He was gone. She returned to the divan. She gazed into the glowing embers of the last log, thinking that indeed it had been a lovely evening. Unexpectedly lovely, in fact.

It was nearing Christmas. An added rush of customers in the beauty parlor. Moira's days were filled.

Her evenings also. Social workers were needed at the hospital. There were entertainments for the convalescents. Concerts. Trees to be decorated. Gifts to be got ready. Helpers were requisitioned.

"Strikes me," grumbled Tarry, annoyed that Moira was no longer at his beck and call, "that that good-looking doctor's at the bottom of your sudden attack of nobility! You wouldn't have this yen for social work if he were an unattractive fellow!"

It was gradually borne in on Moira that Tarry knew a great deal as to hospital affairs. One evening, on her way to a weekly hospital sewing-circle, she had a glimpse of Tarry in a corridor talking with Nurse Emmet.

She knew, of course, that around five or so,

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Nov. 18.—The Cornwells P. T. A. meeting in the school auditorium, Thursday, opened with singing, with Miss Paist conducting. Mrs. R. Perkins continued with the business meeting.

Being the time for the annual request for the Boy Scouts, Miss C. Withers read a report from one of the scoutmasters.

The banner was won by Miss Rae Komenarski's room for the third consecutive time, with Miss May Early's and Axel Kleinsorg's pupils tying for second place.

Miss Paist announced a double quartet of trumps playing "The Rosary" and "Whispering Hope."

L. Taylor introduced the speaker, Mr. Neeberg, principal of an elementary school in Philadelphia, who spoke on book week, showing the books from the early pilgrims and the school readers that were first printed in 1793 up to the present date. "May we be thankful we are living in the modern age and more cheerful books are available," he said.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

the class-room whose task it is to mold the plastic mind.

The next institution considered, which ante-dates the school house is the jail, the speaker quoting Nathaniel Hawthorne who referred to it as "the black flower of American civilization." Said Dr. Hand: "The Jail symbolizes the faith of the American fathers in law and order. There is great danger of losing this respect in these times. The world has gone crazy, money-mad and war-mad. We are losing all sense of value and sacredness of personality. Crime is abounding. The great Abraham Lincoln had a philosophy of respect for law. Jesus Christ likewise had a philosophy of respect for law when He said 'Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's' and unto God the things that are God's."

The third institution mentioned was the town hall, which originated in the cabin of the "Mayflower." "It symbolized America's faith in self-government. It's first great struggle came with the desire to be free from British rule; its second in 1812 to free itself from the power of the press gang; the third, in freedom for the colored race; and the fourth in freedom from the curse of strong drink."

Considering the church as the fourth great institution, the speaker mentioned this as a symbolization of America's faith in God. Telling that the word Yahweh (Jehovah), means success, he added that the American fathers knew that linked to God they would be led unto victory. "Then as now commercial and pagan influences lead to break-down of Sabbath observance, and respect for other holy things, which made our fore-fathers pass such stringent 'blue laws.' They have succumbed to them. These ideals are not obsolete, but vitally needed for this present time."

The presiding officer was William Roeschen, Newtown; with Sidney Smythe, Scottsville, leading the singing. Scripture was read by Miss Gladys Wink; and prayer offered by the Emille pastor, the Rev. Samuel Gaskell. A feature of the evening was singing by the Mullins Sisters, Edith and Betty, of Pineville. Refreshments concluded the evening, the Leagues represented being Newtown, Bensalem, Yardley, Morrisville, Penn's Park, Scottsville, Langhorne, Trevoise, Emille.

Providing Connolly with a unique characterization, the fast-moving story tells of a beloved and kindly country doctor serving a prison sentence for allowing his humanity to outweigh his regard for the law. "Our Leading Citizen" opens Sunday at the Bristol Theatre.

GRAND THEATRE

Jackie Cooper and Freddie Bartholomew are cast as friendly enemies in their dramatic new Universal picture, "Two Bright Boys," which starts today at the Grand Theatre with Alan Dinehart, Dorothy Peterson, Melville Cooper and J. M. Kerrigan.

Said to be the most powerful story in which either of the young stars have appeared in recent months. "Two Bright Boys" is described as a stirring drama of human hearts.

Hollywood likes to think itself mature these days, and to prove it 20th Century-Fox has filmed its story in Technicolor. It's Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "Hollywood Cavalcade," starring Alice Faye and Don Ameche. Coming Sunday to the Grand Theatre, the film looks back over the romantic, cockeyed years from bathing beauties to world premieres.

RITZ THEATRE

Believing that film audiences will welcome a gay respite from the pressure of present-day living, Walter Wanger has produced a diverting story of college love in "Winter Carnival," at the Ritz Theatre today. Starring the vivacious Ann Sheridan with Richard Carlson and featuring a large cast of Hollywood's outstanding starlets, "Winter Carnival" was directed by Charles F. Riesner and is a United Artists release.

A bright, melodious host of grand old songs, known to oldsters and youngsters alike because they have of the picture.

become increasingly popular through the years, and four new songs, destined to rank in the hit class, will be sung and danced to in the great new Bing Crosby comedy drama, "The Star Maker," which Paramount will present on Sunday afternoon at the Ritz Theatre.

The old songs are the work of Gus Edwards, the famous showman whose amazing career suggested the story

FALLS ALUMNI GRID TEAM TOMORROW OPPOSES DIAMOND

Clash Will Take Place On Warner Field, Bristol Pike, Morrisville

EXPECT CLOSE CONTEST

Falls Is Now Leading The Conference by Three Points

One of the most important games of the Bucks County Conference will be played tomorrow afternoon on Warner's Field, Bristol Pike, Morrisville, when the Falls Alumni eleven meets Joe Diamanti's Diamond team. ST. Ann's A. A. is scheduled to play the Lamberville Ramblers on the latter's field.

Falls and Diamond played to a scoreless deadlock in their first meeting. This tilt was closely played from start to finish and featured by good booting on both sides.

At the present time, Falls is leading the conference with three points. Diamond is second with two, and St. Ann's comes next with a single point. A victory over Falls will put the Diamond team in first place. Both clubs have ST. Ann's to play again before the season is over.

Coach Jimmy Doherty will stick to his same line-up of Appenzeller, Castro, Cappiello, Johnson, Nealey, Vandegrift, Jadocki, Sesse, Schaffer, Lovett, Tomlinson and Wasurki. Joe Diamanti will start Junghans, Swadis, Belinski, Marbello, J. Belinski, Fletcher, Roberts, Lange, Scarborough, Girard and Efling.

St. Ann's will again face a much heavier team in Lamberville. The Jerseyites have a fine record and are favored over the Saints. Coach Dougherty drilled his club twice this week and is determined to beat the Ramblers.

Kickoffs for the games are scheduled for 2:30 o'clock.

MILL ST. BOYS' CLUB ENTERS CAGE LEAGUE

The Mill Street Boys Club, one of the new entries in the Bristol Basketball League has a fine array of players signed up and are expected to cause plenty of trouble for the other five clubs in the circuit.

At center will be Charlie Hughes who was at this post for Goodwill last season and was among the highest scorers of the circuit. At forwards, will be Johnny Slaven, formerly of Bloomsburg State Teachers' College, who played with St. Ann's last season and proved to be the sensation of the league, and Ray Dorsey, the colored flash, who is one of the best distance shooters in this vicinity and a full forty minute player.

Guard honors will be divided between Chuck Klein, formerly of Langhorne High School, Tommy Profy who played with Goodwill last season, and Dick Lukens, who also wore the Goodwill colors last season.

This is the line-up that will face George Hermann's Grundy's team of Jesse Vanzant, Kervick, Snyder, Burke, Narcisi, Gallagher, Zack and Buckman. Bill Gallagher was one of the leading scorers of the Lower Bucks County High School Conference last season and Snyder was a high scorer on the Hibernians. These players are expected to strengthen the woolen twisters to put them in the fight for the championship.

CARDINALS TO OPPOSE BRIDGEPORT TEAM HERE

This afternoon on the Bristol high school field the Cardinals will clash with the strong Bridgeport eleven in a grid scrap which is expected to be one of the best games played here this season.

The Bridgeport Dragons are keen rivals of Bristol high and the two teams are expected to bring out their strongest lineups as both are eager to end the contest in victory.

The school football season is rapidly drawing to a close and a large attendance is anticipated at the game this afternoon.

The kick-off will take place at 2:15.

SUPERIOR ZINC TAKES THREE FROM RAMBLERS

Last night on the Bristol bowling alleys, Superior Zinc took three points from the Ramblers. With Kempton, Jr., hitting the maple wood for a score of 549, the zinc workers had no trouble in defeating the Ramblers. Kempton, Jr., also had a high game of 207 for the Ramblers. The zinc workers are now hitting the pins harder and are right after the first place team, Auto Boys, in the National League. Harry Kendig bowled a high three game of 518 for the losers.

In the other games bowled on the local alleys, Fleetwing took all four points from Wilson's. It looks like the airplane workers were too much for Wilson's last night. Platon bowled 547 for three games for the airplane men.

Patapar and Amoco split in their games bowled last night, each taking two points. Hunter was high for P. P. P., with a score of 515. Nelson bowled 521 for the Amoco team.

BENSALEM OWLS WIN "BIG BROWN JUG" CONTEST

LANGHORNE, Nov. 18—The Bensalem Owls came up with a third period touchdown to nose out the Langhorne Redskins here yesterday afternoon, 6-0, and thereby capture the "Big Brown Jug."

But it took some fancy stepping by Bob Scarborough plus some high class blocking on the part of his mates to produce the lone tally that eventually decided the contest. The brilliant Owl quarterback took the second half kickoff on his own 29 yard line and proceeded to sprint the remaining 80 yards to score standing up.

It was a spectacular dash that started up the middle aisle, but in the neighborhood of his own 40, Scarborough broke to the left sidelines and outran all his chasers to go over without a hand being laid on him. This was due mainly to some beautiful blocking on the part of his teammates, especially from A. Despo, Owl halfback, who mowed down several would-be Redskins tacklers. After taking the kick-off, Scarborough momentarily stumbled on the 24, but lost no time in picking up the leather oval and proceeding on his uninterrupted way to the Redskins goal line and eventually hang up the Owls 4th conference triumph of the campaign as compared to a single setback, that at the hands of Morrisville, 14-7.

A combination of the best brand of ball exhibited by the Redskins all season thus far, plus a bit of poor playing on the part of the Owls resulted in the low score the Red Raiders managed to hold the Owls to. And even though they went down to their sixth straight defeat, Langhorne achieved a great moral victory in holding the heavily favored Owls to a single touchdown.

Both clubs showed signs of brilliancy at times. But then again, both clubs gave an exhibition of football nightmares to their respective coaches and followers.

RECS TO PLAY HOPE FIREMEN TOMORROW

The Bristol Rees football club will line-up against Hope Fire Company team of Burlington tomorrow at the high school field in Burlington at 2:30 p. m. The Rees will have their strongest line-up since the Steel Jackets game several weeks ago. When Kervick and several other players who were injured in that game will be back along with several new players who Coach Dougherty has been breaking in, will no doubt add strength to the Rees.

Cotti, a tackle; Accardi, a guard; looked good last Sunday at Florence. This game starts at 2:30 sharp, and the Rees players are requested to be at No. 2 fire house at 12 sharp as Coach George Dougherty wants to run the club through a signal drill before leaving for Burlington at 1:30 p. m. committee, spoke of the annual Red Cross roll call. An excellent number of the club paper, "The Northampton Siftings," was read by Mrs. Paul S. Davis. Mrs. Samuel Pernar and Mrs. Joseph W. Halliwell were appointed to serve on the paper committee for the next month.

Instrumental music throughout the evening was furnished by the Misses Margaret and Mary Davis and Elbert Pernar.

A one-act comedy, "A Bicycle Built For Two," was staged by Mr. and Mrs. Furman A. Edwards, and Miss Julia Slack gave a reading, "The Gay Nineties."

A feature of the meeting was a debate, "Resolved, That the Horse and Buggy Days Were the Best for Courtship." The affirmative arguments were presented by Joseph A. Addis and the negative by Mrs. Lester Thomas and Samuel Pernar. Mrs. Milton Luff was also to have presented affirmative arguments, but in her absence, Mr. Addis defended his side alone and he was declared the winner.

ROHM & HAAS BOWLERS WIN OVER COFFEY TEAM

Last night on the Bristol Bowling alleys, Rohm & Haas trounced the Coffey bowlers. With Sharkey hitting the pins for a score of 525, R. & H. easily defeated the Gas Measurers.

Saturday, the Coffey bowlers bowl Frankford.

Dot's Lanchette seem to be climbing in the Industrial League, because last night they took three games from the Sinclair Oil team. "Charley" Hornby kept up his consistent bowling by hitting the pins for a score of 575. Hornby bowled a high game of 210 for the Sinclair team. Kish hit the pins for a score of 506 for Sinclair.

Dolls From Afar Greet Bristol Club Members

theatre wore brilliant, brocaded costumes; Toto was a Japanese school-boy. Others were Fatima, a Mohammedan woman from Cairo; dolls from Algiers, Denmark, Holland, Sweden, Bulgaria, Italy, Spain, Poland, Lapland, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, Russia, South Africa, Bavaria, Brittany, Alsace-Morraine, Dalmatia, Hungary. But the tiniest dolls of all, forming a complete bridal party from Chile, because of their smallness were of necessity worn in the hair of Mrs. Balm.

The president of the senior club, Mrs. William DuHamel, being unable to attend, sent a note of greeting to the Juniors, this being read by Mrs. Martin. A piano solo "Romance" was delightfully rendered by Miss Jean Roberts; and Mrs. Wallin presented an account of the year's work on the part of the guest club-members.

A gift was presented to the hostess club on behalf of the Juniors by their president, Mrs. Robert Brooks, this being a beautiful lace dinner-cloth. The serving of refreshments concluded a delightful evening.

Hostesses for this affair were Mrs.

Walter W. Pitzonka and Mrs. Earl H. Tomb; with the social committee headed by Mrs. Harry Pope, being aided in serving by a special committee.

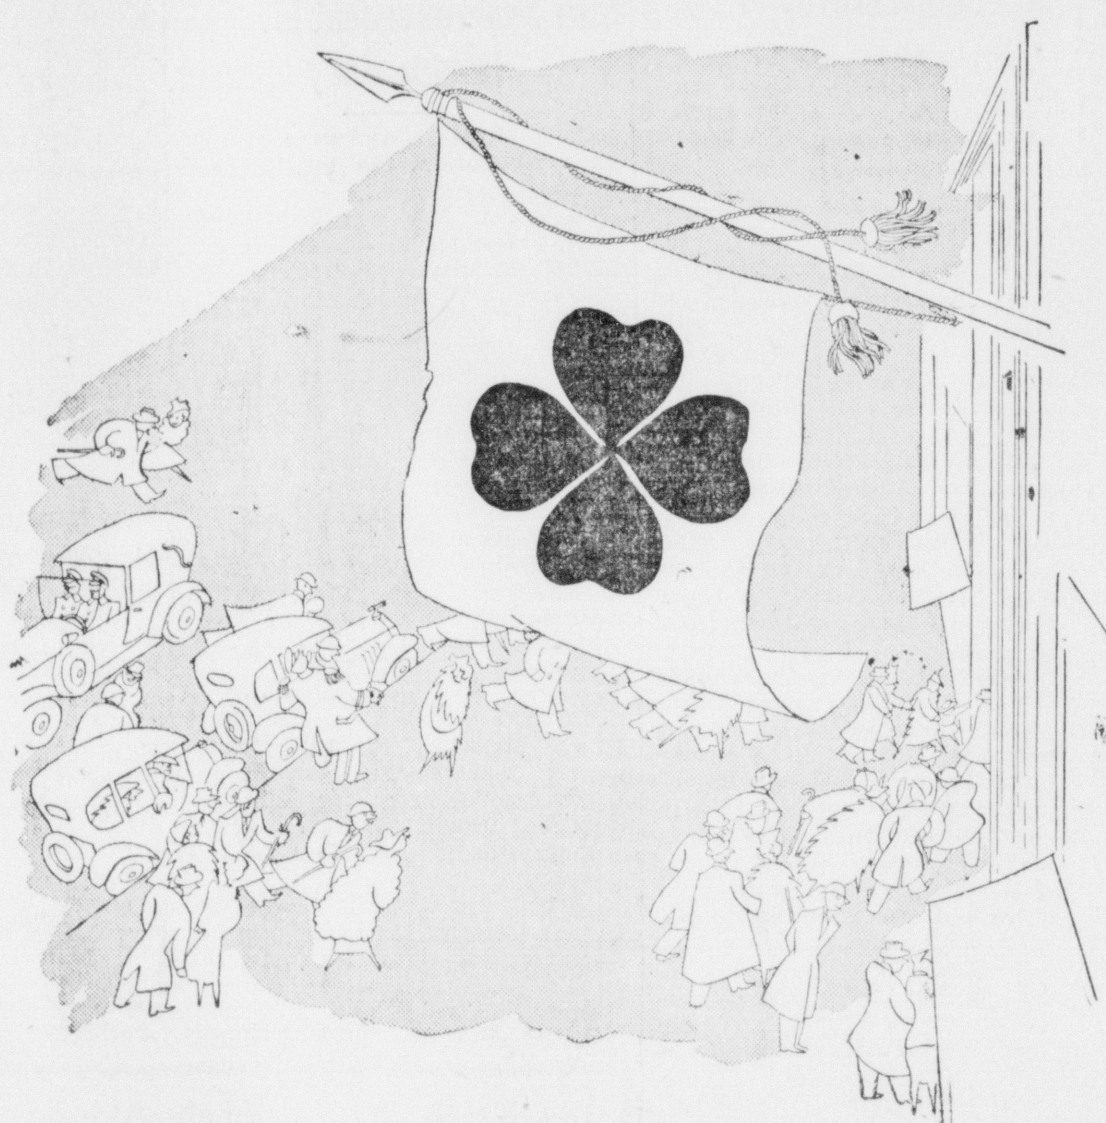

Sewing Club Honors One Of Number On Birthday

Members of the Gossip Sewing Club met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Anthony Capella, 452 Logan street, the birthday anniversary of Miss Virginia DiNunzio, 807 Garden street, being celebrated. A social time was followed by refreshments. Miss DiNunzio was presented with gifts.

Those attending: the Misses Leona Cioti, Emma Marucci, Louise Troiani, Louise Scancella, Antoinette Mazzanti, Rose Baiocchi, Philomena Biancosino; Mrs. John Marchetti, Mrs. Anthony Capella, Mrs. Paul Cervellero, Bristol; Miss Dorothy Campbell, Croydon.

NEW-FASHIONED CAR!
The 1940 FORD V-8

Some motorists will take months to learn why we HAD to call the new Ford "New-Fashioned"! But not you!

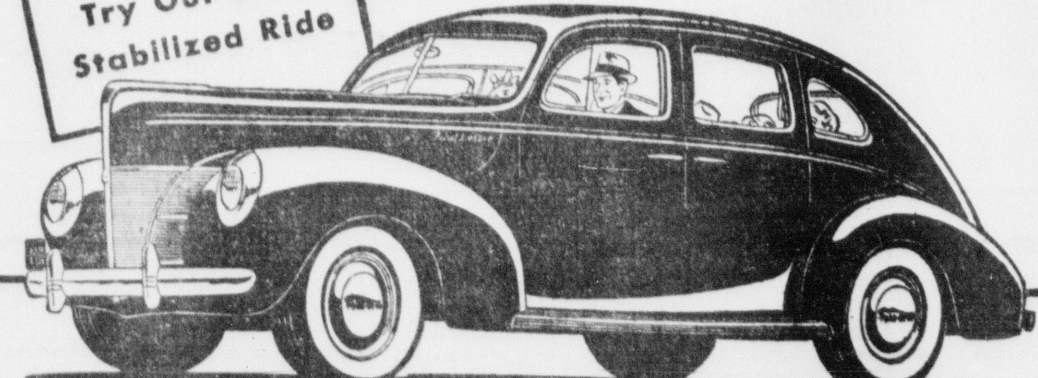

A few arm-chair experts will still be saying, "All low-price cars are alike." But you'll know better!

Because YOU're going to KNOW what a world of difference those 22 IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENTS make! You're going to KNOW that this sweet-riding "eight" is the biggest, roomiest Ford ever built! (Five inches more over-all length. Four inches more usable inside length in Sedans!)

So come in today, and drive the big, roomy Ford V-8 for 1940. You'll learn a lot about VALUE —and you'll love it!

JUST DRIVE IT—
Try Our New
Stabilized Ride

De Luxe Ford V-8 for 1940 equipped with new torsion bar ride-stabilizer... an entirely new and better ride

IMPROVED SOUNDPROOFING
From stern to stern, this big, roomy "eight" has been "soundproofed" by Ford engineers, working with the latest vibration-detecting instruments and sound-deadening materials. In addition, a new "easy-shift" transmission, improved brake drums, and the smooth V-8 engine help to reduce noise and vibration.
